This course provides executives with an overview of the various national and state incident management systems. Participants will be able to assess their organizational emergency management programs and their individual responsibilities as executives/policy makers. This five-hour course includes topics on:

- “Why Plans Fail”
- California’s Standardized Emergency Management System (SEMS)
- The National Incident Management System (NIMS)
- The Incident Command System (ICS) and the Executive
- A comparative look at Hurricane Katrina and a successful case study on an actual local response to the nation’s first weapons of mass destruction incident involving every level of government.

Willdan has had two primary objectives since our inception in 1964—ensuring the success of our clients and enhancing our surrounding communities. Working steadily toward these goals we gained a notable reputation for technical excellence, cost effectiveness, and client responsiveness in providing superior engineering and planning consulting services. In recent years Willdan has expanded our service offerings into several vital areas including financial and economic analysis, homeland security, environmental remediation, and sustainability. We have crafted this set of integrated services so that, in the face of our evolving environment—whether economic, natural, or built—Willdan can continue to extend the reach and resources of our clients.
