Active Shooter Tabletop Exercise

Description

Unfortunately, active shooter events have become commonplace in our society today. Active shooter situations are unpredictable, evolve quickly, and require a coordinated response across multiple levels. To meet this challenge, we offer the Active Shooter Tabletop Exercise (TTX). The Active Shooter TTX is a cost-effective solution designed to provide public agencies and private sector companies with an opportunity to discuss key response and recovery issues associated with an active shooter incident. This facilitated exercise is designed to reduce the time and money required to conduct and evaluate an active shooter discussion-based exercise.

Our 4-hour, Active Shooter Tabletop Exercise uses an interactive discussion to explore the following topics:

- Alert, Notification, and Priorities
- Immediate Actions
- Incident Management
- Critical Information Requirements and Information Sharing
- Situational Awareness and the Common Operating Picture
- Public Information Operations
- Employee Assistance and Family Notification
- Continuity of Operations
- Recovery Operations

Professional services included in the Active Shooter Tabletop Exercise:

- Facilitated planning meeting
- Facilitated exercise and HSEEP compliant after-action report development
- Tailored scenario and exercise materials required to conduct the exercise
- Invite letter and RSVP collection
