Tactical Awareness/Threat Recognition Course

Description

The Tactical Awareness/Threat Recognition (TATR) Course is a tactical situational awareness course designed to help law enforcement and security professionals defeat criminal and terrorist networks by teaching students how to quickly and accurately assess the intentions, capabilities, and emotions of those they interact with everyday. TATR instruction is designed to provide students with the tools and techniques to observe specific elements of non-verbal human behavior that allow them to accurately predict the future actions of individuals and groups that harbor violent intentions. TATR techniques and tools are combat proven in Iraq, Afghanistan, and in progressive law enforcement departments across the U.S.

Upon course completion of this one-day course, participants will be able to:

- More effectively employ the Cooper Awareness Color Code through enhanced mental preparedness and awareness.
- Make better and more accurate decisions with limited information/time through the application of heuristics.
- Establish environmental baselines that identify behavioral anomalies and aid decision-making.
- Understand non-verbal communication to include facial expressions, gestures, touching, physical movements, posture, and the meaning of tone, pitch, and volume of person's voice.
- Use Kinesic and Biometric cues to classify a person or group's behavior into six behavioral clusters.
